

BEING EXCELLENT TO A LEVEL OF 70%?

“And if i lowered my satisfaction standard to 70% would that really make me more inefficient?”

it is not unusual to want to do too much, or to do more than was requested. Can i also adapt my scale of standards to the available means and still be completely satisfied with my work?

Efficiency more often than not requires one to break away from perfectionism!

Describe the different options for carrying out a task that has to be accomplished today as a function of the following levels of standards:

100 %: fulfil the task perfectly (on-time, no mistakes, to the last detail, better than requested)

80 %: fulfil the task, having checked for possible errors

70 %: fulfil the task, no more no less

50 %: just fulfil the task on-time with some errors or do it well but late

30 %: be very late and/or with many errors

0 %: donothing

And if you lowered your standards to 70% and observed the effect on your efficiency ?